

Tools of the Trade

Just as you can get into a rut with your haircut, you can easily get stuck using the same old styling products year after year. But as you change your cut and style, you also need to make adjustments to your product lineup. "A lot of it has to do with the weight of a product," says hairstylist

Ryan Trygstad. "Take serums: Long hair needs luster, so they're perfect for adding shine and moisture. But they're way too heavy for a short pixie cut—your hair would just look oily because it's so close to the scalp." These are the most essential creams, sprays, and styling tools for each length.

Sharon Stone

Shoulder Length

If you have natural spirals, a couple dabs of Phyto Professional Curl Energizing Cream give them a better shape.

Infiniti by Conair 1" Professional Curling Iron is the perfect size for making waves at this length.

The Bio Ionic Silver Classic Brush creates a smooth finish during a blowout.

The Revlon RV480 Professional Ceramic Universal Finger Diffuser helps keep curls from frizzing.
