At the Cover Shoot

On our set in Atlanta, an upbeat Whitney Houston owns the spotlight

STOP AND STARE

"Whitney has great arms and long, slim legs, so we accentuated her figure with formfitting dresses," says stylist Haidee Findlay-Levin. Here the singer works it in an Hervé Léger by Max Azria dress, a Burberry bracelet, and Christian Louboutin booties.

WHITNEY ANSWERS YOUR QUESTIONS ON p. 130

JUST A DROP

Hair pro Tiffanie Dixon used White Sands' Porosity the Fix to enhance Houston's curls, which "danced with her every move."

HARD ROCKS

Whitney chose clothing in a darker palette, and Findlay-Levin dressed up each look with statement jewelry like these colorful Yves Saint Laurent pieces.

SO CHEEKY

To give our cover girl a fresh glow, makeup artist Roxanna Floyd applied Beauty Blush in Warm Sand, made by Fashion Fair, one of Houston's favorite cosmetics lines.

WHEN WE FIRST MET ...

At a White House dinner with the Clintons in 1994, we took readers inside the party, where Houston sang her megahit "Greatest Love of All" for guest of honor Nelson Mandela.

QUEEN OF POP

Energy was high on set, especially when classics by the Supremes and Michael Jackson were blasting. "She was smiling, singing and dancing as if she were at an M.J. concert!" says Dixon of the star.
